Acknowledgements

As editors of this book we would like to acknowledge and thank a number of people. First, we would like to thank all those individuals who attended and/or presented at the conference Intersections of Ageing, Gender and Sexualities (IAGES), which was held at the University of Surrey, UK, 6–7 July 2015. This conference, which was supported by funding from the Institute of Advanced Studies, University of Surrey, formed the basis of this book and many of its chapters were initially presented there. Many thanks must go to all the authors who have contributed to this collection and been understanding and responsive throughout the process. Much thanks also goes to Laura Vickers-Rendall at Policy Press, who has always been helpful, encouraging and patient during the process of the writing, editing and producing this book. Finally, we would also like to acknowledge the important contribution of Sue Westwood, who was central to the organisation of the IAGES conference and the initial stages of this book.
