A valuable effort to collate and summarize findings from longitudinal studies across the world and across sectors. The author demonstrates the uniqueness of longitudinal data and studies for policy-relevant research addressing human development-related goals.”

Marie-Claude Martin, Lunenfeld-Tanenbaum Research Institute

It is critical that the well-being of society is systematically tracked by indicators that not only give an accurate picture of human life today but also provide a window into the future for all of us. This book presents impactful findings from international longitudinal studies that respond to the United Nations’ Agenda 2030 commitment to ‘leave no one behind’. Contributors explore a wide range and complexity of pressing global issues, with emphasis given to excluded and vulnerable populations and gender inequality.

Importantly, the book sets out actionable strategies for policy makers and practitioners to help strengthen the global Sustainable Development Goals framework, accelerate their implementation and improve the construction of effective public policy.