Rethinking Value Chains
Palpacuer, Florence, Smith, Alistair

Published by Bristol University Press

Palpacuer, Florence and Alistair Smith.
Rethinking Value Chains: Tackling the Challenges of Global Capitalism.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/85332.

For additional information about this book https://muse.jhu.edu/book/85332

For content related to this chapter https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2989934 Contents

List of figures and tables Notes on contributors
Acknowledgements
Introduction: Rethinking value chains in times of crisis
Florence Palpacuer and Alistair Smith

Part I Mounting issues in the governance of global value chains one Global production networks: the state, power and politics Martin Hess
two Global inequality chains: how global value chains and wealth chains (re)produce inequalities of wealth Liam Campling and Clair Quentin three Orchestrating environmental sustainability in a world of global value chains Stefano Ponte
four Trade policy for fairer and more equitable global value chains Louise Curran and Jappe Eckhardt

Part II Strengthening the role of people and democracy five Civil society action towards judiciary changes in the regulation of global value chains Marilyn Croser
RETHINKING VALUE CHAINS

six  Assessing the economic, social and environmental impacts of global value chains as a tool for change Christophe Alliot

seven  Worker- and small farmer-led strategies to engage lead firms in responsible sourcing Alistair Smith

eight  Empowering local communities in their struggle for land and rights Eloïse Maulet

Conclusion: Pondering the future of global value chains
Florence Palpacuer and Alistair Smith

Index