Notes on Contributors

Mathias Albert is Professor of Political Science at the University of Bielefeld (Germany).

Chris Brown is Emeritus Professor of International Relations at the London School of Economics and Political Science (UK).

Christian Bueger is Professor of International Relations at the Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen (Denmark).

James W. Davis is Professor of International Politics, University of St Gallen (Switzerland).

K.M. Fierke is Professor in the School of International Relations, University of St Andrews (UK).

Jörg Friedrichs is Associate Professor of Politics at the Oxford Department of International Development and Official Fellow of St Cross College, University of Oxford (UK).

Gunther Hellmann is Professor of Political Science in the Department of Social Sciences at Goethe University, Frankfurt am Main (Germany).

Patrick Thaddeus Jackson is Professor of International Studies in the School of International Service at American University (US).

Oliver Kessler is Professor of International Relations at the University of Erfurt (Germany).

Jan Klabbers is Professor of International Law at the University of Helsinki (Finland).

Friedrich Kratochwil is Professor Emeritus of International Relations at the European University Institute (Italy).
Anthony F. Lang, Jr. is Professor in the School of International Relations, University of St Andrews (UK).

Cecelia Lynch is Professor of Political Science at the University of California, Irvine (US).

Jens Steffek is Professor of Transnational Governance at Technical University of Darmstadt (Germany).

Antje Wiener is Professor of Political Science and Global Governance at the University of Hamburg (Germany).