City Regions and Devolution in the UK

Beel, David, Jones, Martin

Published by Bristol University Press

Beel, David and Martin Jones.
City Regions and Devolution in the UK: The Politics of Representation.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/82168.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/82168
The Civil Society and Social Change series provides interdisciplinary and comparative perspectives on the rapidly changing nature of civil society at local, regional, national and global scales. The series comprises a core set of edited volumes reporting on research findings from across the Wales Institute of Social and Economic Research and Data.

Series editors: Ian Rees Jones, Cardiff University, Mike Woods, Aberystwyth University and Paul Chaney, Cardiff University

“Conceptually and empirically rich, this book provides an essential contribution to understand the evolution of the city-regions and devolution agenda, exposing the governance, socio-economic and democratic challenges that underpin it.”
Arianna Giovannini, De Montfort University

ePDF and ePUB available Open Access under CC-BY-NC licence.

In recent years, the ‘city region’ has seen a renaissance as the de facto spatial centre of governance for economic and social development.

Rich in case study insights, this book provides a critique of city-region building and considers how governance restructuring shapes the political, economic, social and cultural geographies of devolution. Reviewing the Greater Manchester, Sheffield, Swansea Bay City Regions, Cardiff Capital Region and the North Wales Growth Deal, the authors address the tensions and opportunities for local elites and civil society actors.

Based on original empirical material, situated within cutting-edge academic and policy debates, this book is a timely and lively engagement with the shifting geographies of economic and social development in Britain.

David Beel is Senior Lecturer in Political Economy at Manchester Metropolitan University.

Martin Jones is Professor of Human Geography and Deputy Vice-Chancellor at Staffordshire University.

Ian Rees Jones is Professor of Sociological Research at Cardiff University and Director of the WISERD ESRC Civil Society Research Centre.