Rethinking Poverty

Knight, Barry

Published by Bristol University Press

Knight, Barry.
Rethinking Poverty: What makes a good society?
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/80317.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/80317

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2887900
List of figures and tables

Figures
1.1 Views of government help to unemployed people (10,112 respondents) 11
2.1 Real-time percentage cuts in departmental expenditure limits 2010–11 to 2015–16 38
2.2 People in poverty after housing costs in different groups in 2004–05 and 2014–15 (millions) 43
2.3 Proportion of people in poverty among different groups, 2015–16, showing effect of housing costs 44
3.1 Qualities of a good society that people believe to be (a) important and (b) present, among 10,112 respondents 66
3.2 Thrive’s five-point plan to address poverty and insecurity 82
3.3 Leeds-based Dole Animators’ vision for a better, more secure future 83
5.1 Views on which groups have responsibility for reducing poverty (10,112 respondents) 117

Tables
3.1 Criteria against which to judge ideas and actions 85
6.1 Changes that need to take place to realise a local agenda for development 154