London's Urban Landscape

Tilley, Christopher

Published by University College London

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/81907

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2778833
List of figures

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Figure</th>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Source/Notes</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>0.1</td>
<td>Map showing the places in London discussed in the text.</td>
<td>Author</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.1</td>
<td>Cheniston Gardens (encircled in red) and the surrounding area of Kensington.</td>
<td>Ordnance Survey open data, 2017</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.2</td>
<td>The Muffin Man at the corner between Cheniston Gardens and Wrights Lane.</td>
<td>Author</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.3</td>
<td>View of Wrights Lane from north, before 1881. The brick wall enclosed the</td>
<td>© RBKC Local Studies &amp; Archives department</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>rear gardens of houses facing High Street Kensington. The small cottage at</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>the bottom, used as a stable or a warehouse, was later incorporated</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>into the northern sector of the Cheniston Gardens development.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.4</td>
<td>Nos 7–11 Cheniston Gardens – contrasting facades.</td>
<td>Author</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.5</td>
<td>Examples of doorbells in Cheniston Gardens.</td>
<td>Author</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.6</td>
<td>Bedrooms at no. 17 before the auction of the building (2014) and after</td>
<td>Author</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>renovation (2016).</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.7</td>
<td>Kitchens at no. 17 before and after renovation.</td>
<td>Author</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.8</td>
<td>Diagram showing the variation in occupation density of Cheniston Gardens</td>
<td>Author</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>houses from 1881 to 2015.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.9</td>
<td>Map of the area before Cheniston Gardens was developed.</td>
<td>Ordnance Survey Map 1871, Sheet 74 Kensington</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.10</td>
<td>Entrance to Cheniston Gardens studios nested among two rows of townhouses.</td>
<td>Author</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Image/Table</td>
<td>Description</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-------------</td>
<td>-------------</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.11</td>
<td>Cheniston Gardens, view from south. To the left Cheniston Lodge and the apartment house that were added to the row of townhouses in 1885 and 1895. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.12</td>
<td>Charles Booth’s map of London poverty (1891). The CG houses are highlighted in yellow, the colour of the upper-middle and upper classes. © The British Library Board, Maps C.21.a.18 det.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.13</td>
<td>Maid on the front door of a Cheniston Gardens townhouse. Photo by Edward Linley Sambourne, 29 July 1906. © The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea, 18 Stafford Terrace</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.14</td>
<td>Aerial view of the rear extensions of the central group of Cheniston Gardens townhouses. © Google Earth</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.15</td>
<td>Place of birth of Cheniston Gardens’ residents in 2011 Census. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.16</td>
<td>Cheniston Gardens – view towards the central corner of the street with the birch trees from a top-floor flat. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1.17</td>
<td>Emma’s neighbourhood map. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.1</td>
<td>View from east through Brunswick Square’s porticoed entrance, O’Donnell Court © S. Stone</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.2</td>
<td>View of winter gardens, O’Donnell Court, prior to 2006 refurbishment. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.3</td>
<td>View through A-frame structure, Foundling Court, first floor level. © S. Stone</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.4</td>
<td>Front door, Foundling Court. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.5</td>
<td>Brunswick Centre shopping precinct, view from south, prior to 2006 refurbishment. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.6</td>
<td>‘A high street for Bloomsbury’: view through shopping precinct after refurbishment, showing new supermarket at northern end. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>Interior view looking across the precinct from O’Donnell Court, 2006. © S. Stone</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.8</td>
<td>View of internal circulation spaces, Foundling Court, 2001. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2.9</td>
<td>View through second floor access gallery to flats (perimeter block, Foundling Court) 2001. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.1</td>
<td>Rosemary Avenue looking west. Source: author</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3.2</td>
<td>Hounslow West – station to the far right, with the Beavers (the Meadows) Estate to the left visible by the trees (Google Maps, 2016 – accessed 14 December 2016)</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
3.3 Entrance to the Beavers Estate from Vincent Road. Source: author
3.5 The ‘bison frame’ blocks today. Source: author
3.6 The Beavers Estate tunnel. Source: author
3.7 The play park in the centre of the estate. Source: author
3.8 Shopping area at ‘the bottom’. Source: author
3.9 The Hub. Source: author
3.10 ‘The stones’. Source: author
4.1 A map of Surbiton, South West London and its relation to Kingston (map made by author using OS data copyright 2014).
4.2 Walking by the river promenade. Photograph by Tangle Photography, reproduced with permission.
4.3 The filter beds and the busy Portsmouth Road. Source: author
4.4 The high street (main shopping area) of Surbiton, Victoria Road. Source: author
4.5 The town houses of Surbiton, designed by Thomas Pooley. Source: author
4.6 A Pooley town house. Source: author
4.7 The workers’ cottages on a ‘river road’. Source: author
4.8 Classic Tudor-style ‘Jones’ houses, typical of inter-war housing. Source: author
4.9 A Seething parade along a Pooley-designed street. Source: author
4.10 The Lefi parade on Surbiton high street (Victoria Road). Source: author
4.11 The Legends of Seething. Made by Hutchinson 2014. Reproduced with permission
4.12 The Seething freshwater sardine procession. Source: author
5.1 West Ham Stadium, Olympic Park, Stratford, east London. Source: author
5.2 White building, art and technology called ‘Space’, and Sweet Toof street art, east London. Source: author
5.3 Political satire on display in the linear village, Lee Navigation, Stratford, east London. Source: author
5.4 Entering the cut from the River Lee, Hertford Union Canal, Hackney, east London. Source: author
5.5 A quiet afternoon, leisure time and sports in Bow, Old Ford Lock No 19, east London. Source: author 208
5.6 Cafes, bars, restaurants and artists’ studios line the river bank, boat traffic unabated. Bow, east London. Source: author 209
5.7 ‘Considerate constructors’ panelling is all pervasive around Fish Island and the Olympic Park, east London. Source: author 210
5.8 In Victoria Park, mooring is regularly two deep. Hertford Union Canal, Tower Hamlets, east London. Source: author 220
5.9 Mixed mooring in Tottenham Hale, a popular destination, Lee Navigation, north London. Source: author 221
5.10 Part of the Hertford Union canal is overlooked by private town houses and their gardens. Victoria Park, Tower Hamlets, east London. Source: author 222
5.11 Cruising and looking for space to moor can be daunting in busy areas. Hertford Union Canal, east London. Source: author 223
5.12 Anchor and Hope pub opposite Walthamstow Marshes, Lee Navigation, north London. Source: author 226
5.14 Lee Valley Marina, Springfield, north London. Source: author 233
5.15 Dutch barge on the River Lee, Hackney Marshes, north-east London. Source: author 236
5.16 Anything can be a boat, this one is on sale for £950, down from £1,000. Stonebridge Lock No 16, Lee Navigation, Tottenham, north London. Source: author 238
5.17 The River Stort is much loved by boaters, but only gets busy in the summer, River Stort, Roydon, Essex. Source: author 248
5.18 My neighbour’s early breakfast on the water. Lee Navigation, Clapton, north-east London. Source: author 249
5.19 In January 2017 the Lee had frozen in certain parts, and continuous cruising was suspended. Stanstead Abbots, east Hertfordshire. Source: author 249
6.1 Smithfield and its surroundings. Source: adapted from Forshaw (1990) 264
6.2 The entire market as seen from west Charterhouse Street. General Market (GM) is in the foreground, followed by Poultry Market (PM), then Main Market (MM) in the background. Source: author

6.3 Main market building, daytime, from Charterhouse Street. Source: author

6.4 Smithfield Market floor plan (adapted from SMTA 2018)

6.5 Loading machinery in the loading bays. Source: author

6.6 Service corridor. Source: author

6.7 A cutting room. Source: author

6.8 Shop fronts. The purple pillars of the original building are still visible on the right. Source: author

6.9 The gate at the entrance to Buyer's Walk, seen from Grand Avenue. Source: author

6.10 The top part of the building, seen from East Market looking downwards towards West Market. Plaque is visible in the centre at the bottom. Source: author

6.11 'Where's Danny?' 'Round ya mum's.' Banter via graffiti on the walls of PM. Source: author

6.12 Graffitied signs. Source: author

6.13 A ghost town: inside Poultry Market. Source: author

6.14 General market against the office block, seen from West Smithfield. Source: author

6.15 An image from the collection Bummaree in the reception area of offices along East Poultry Avenue. The bummaree can be seen pulling his barrow behind him; bummarees no longer work like this. Source: author

7.1 Bermondsey Antiques Market around 2a.m. Source: author

7.2 'Edna' stalling out at Bermondsey Antiques Market: each item touched, each history remembered. Source: author

7.3 Bermondsey Antiques Market shown in relation to London Bridge Station. Satellite image with shaded area showing the market space. Source: author

7.4 A very quiet early start for the traders at Bermondsey Antiques Market, around 4a.m. Source: author

7.5 The timeline of an object – 'from rubbish to antique in a week'. Source: author

8.1 Two women exchanging goodbyes as they leave Cafe Floris. Source: author
8.2 The Ampersand Hotel at dusk, towering over a full rank on Harrington Road. An Uber driver is waiting for their passenger on the double yellow lines opposite. Source: author

8.3 A potential passenger shows a cab driver a piece of paper with the address of his destination written on it before getting into the back of the taxi. Source: author

8.4 A driver breaks away mid-rank. Mostly this happens when the driver has accepted a fare on one of the ride-hailing apps that the profession uses, such as Hailo or Gett. Source: author

8.5 A cab driver sits on the bonnet of his cab while smoking a cigarette between jobs. Source: author

8.6 Besides the rank on Harrington Road, waiting for the traffic lights to turn green, two drivers express different views on the author. Source: author

8.7 A cab driver reading a book on her Kindle between jobs. Source: author

8.8 A cab driver resting their head on their hand and looking at a photograph of a woman while inching towards the front of the rank. Source: author

8.9 People wait as the digital timetable counts down to the arrival of the next buses. Source: author

8.10 A woman staying at one of the luxury serviced apartments opposite The Ampersand Hotel stands and watches as her luggage is loaded into the Middle East Cargo Services freight van. Source: author

8.11 The doorman of The Ampersand Hotel holds the door open for a guest. Source: author

8.12 An Uber driver in a Toyota Prius waits at the side of the road with their hazard lights flashing, the rank can be seen in the distance. Source: author

8.13 A black cab driver smiles as he drops off a family arriving at The Ampersand Hotel. Source: author

8.14 The doorman stands alone waiting in the lobby of The Ampersand Hotel. Source: author

8.15 Harrington Road seen through the rear windscreen of a hackney carriage. Source: author

9.1 Looking west down Chestnut Walk. Source: author

9.2 Map of Holland Park (Courtesy of the Friends of Holland Park)
9.3 A pigeon on Lord Holland's head. Source: author
9.4 The entrance to the Japanese Garden. Source: author
9.5 Inside the Kyoto Garden. Source: author
9.6 The crack under the bench in the Kyoto Garden. Source: author
9.7 Walking man. Sculpture by Sean Henry. Source: author
9.8 View of the Dutch Garden, opera tents beyond. Source: author
9.9 Meridiana by Helaine Blumenfeld. Source: author
9.10 The chess set. Source: author
9.11 Outside the Belvedere restaurant. Source: author
9.12 Mural in the arcade leading to the Orangery by Mao Wen Biao. Source: author
9.13 The opera pavilion. Source: author
9.14 View south across the sports field to the high-rise flats on Kensington High Street. Source: author
9.15 Defaced anti-climb paint sign. Source: author
10.1 A Shoreditch canvas: a plethora of tags, posters, stickers and paste-ups. Source: author
10.2 Shoreditch beach: artificial turf, deckchairs and wide-screen TV. Source: author
10.3 The images everywhere: tags, stickers, and admissible dissidence. Note the small red sticker placed over the nose of the pasted-up ‘one love’ kid. Kitsch resistance. Source: author
10.4 Graffiti as archetype/street art as stereotype: a street art mural ‘dogged’ by a series of silver and black ‘throw-ups’. Source: author
10.5 From avant-garde to passé: street art as the ultimate in kitsch. Source: author
10.6 Passé by OX, Paris, 2017: street art through the looking glass and back (to a space of actual innovation). Image courtesy of OX
10.7 Still antagonistic: standing out amidst a wealth of other tags, OKER and OFSKE remain proudly antagonistic. Source: author
10.8 Still other: again, OKER and OFSKE make their presence felt. Source: author