Museum Object Lessons for the Digital Age

Geismar, Haidy

Published by University College London

Geismar, Haidy.
Museum Object Lessons for the Digital Age.
University College London, 2018.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/81925.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/81925

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2779304
Acknowledgements

For feedback and friendship at different moments I am grateful to: Bruce Altshuler, Joshua Bell, Clare Harris, Aaron Glass, Hannah Knox, Daniel Miller, Katja Müller, Stephen Neale, Maia Nuku, Laura Peers, Ciraj Rassool, Antonia Walford and two anonymous reviewers for UCL Press. Thanks to Maia Nuku, Caroline Wright, Harriet Loffler, Kura Puke, Stuart Foster, Te Matahiapo Research Organization, Giancarlo Amati, Sebastian Chan, Ludovic Coupaye, Adam Drazin, Susanne Küchler and Delphine Mercier for their collaboration and conversation during the course of research and writing. The research and writing was undertaken since I started in my present position at UCL in 2012. I am grateful for the support of a research fellowship at the Bard Graduate Center in New York, Autumn 2015, and for the ongoing support from the Department of Anthropology at UCL. Special thanks to the Berlin Writers’ Workshop (with intense gratitude to Jennifer Deger for all the support and feedback).

This work was also refined through opportunities to present and discuss at: Heidelberg University; Halle University Museum 4.0 lecture series; Aarhus University’s Precious Relics Workshop; the Museum Studies and Anthropology Seminar at Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, USA; the research seminar at Bard Graduate Center, New York; the Austronesian Seminar, LSE; the Museums at the Cross Roads Symposium at the Mathers Museum, Indiana University; the Transforming Data Workshop, CRESC-Open University; the Visual, Material and Museum Anthropology Seminar at the University of Oxford; the London Historical Geographers Seminar, Senate House; and the Centre for Anthropological Research on Museums and Heritage at Humboldt University, Berlin. Thanks to Nora Al-Badri and Jan Nikolai Nelles for their permission to use the image of Nefertiti on the cover.

Thanks to Chris Penfold, Jaimee Biggins and the editorial team at UCL Press.

*Please note: all referenced web pages have been archived through the Wayback Machine and so can be accessed, either live or dead, through https://archive.org/web/.