Acknowledgements

I wish to express my very deepest gratitude to the Arts and Humanities Research Council for generously funding the fellowship that led to the production of this volume.

I am extremely grateful to the staff at UCL Press, in particular Lara Speicher, Chris Penfold, and Jaimee Biggins, for their support of the volume from its inception through the writing, submission, and production process.

My warmest thanks go to Ada Rapoport-Albert for her continual encouragement, as well as for generously giving of her time to review the entire volume and make countless positive contributions to it. I am also very grateful to the anonymous reader for providing a number of extremely helpful comments. Special thanks are due to Sacha Stern for his support of the project, and to Shai Heijmans, Tsila Ratner, Aaron Rubin, Andrea Schatz, and Riitta-Liisa Valijärvi for their invaluable discussion sessions and help with individual portions of the research.

Finally, I am eternally grateful to James Holz for his ceaseless support and numerous insightful suggestions.
