Migrants and City-Making

Published by Duke University Press

🔗 For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/65104

🔗 For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2290142
LIST OF ILLUSTRATIONS

Map 1.1  Map showing Manchester, New Hampshire, city center, city boundaries, and the location of the city within the northeastern United States  37

Map 1.2  Map showing Halle city center, city boundaries, and the location of the city within Germany  54

Map 1.3 and 1.4  Maps showing the boundaries of Mardin city-region and the location of Mardin on the Turkish border and border-crossing routes to Syria and Iraq  74

Fig 1.1  Panoramic view of the cotton mills at Manchester, New Hampshire, by Alphonso H. Sanborn, 1903  38

Fig 1.2  View of regenerated downtown Manchester with sports and entertainment arena  41

Fig 1.3  Poster promoting and rebranding Halle, on abandoned socialist housing on street connecting the central railroad station to the city center  58

Fig 1.4  Regeneration of Marktplatz Halle and promotion of short-lived Dell Call Center  61

Fig 1.5  The office of Karamba Diaby, a representative to the federal parliament for the Social Democratic Party  71

Fig 1.6  Mardin old town viewed from the outskirt settlements  82

Fig 2.1  Storefront of a long-term migrant business near Halle city center  107

Fig 2.2  Renovated storefront near Halle city center, abandoned by international retailer and upscale restaurant  113

Fig 3.1  Hubert and Helene, launching the campaign to bring their seven children from Congo to Manchester  123
Fig 4.1   Halle residents pray for healing as part of Christian missionizing in Halle  156

Fig 5.1   Swiss ambassador to Turkey visiting the Syriac Christian resettlement of Kafro, in Mardin city-region in September 2014  178

Fig 5.2   Mardin city center, before renovation  192

Fig 5.3   Mardin city center, after partial renovation  192