Contents

List of Maps
Preface
Acknowledgments

Part One: Maritime East Asia in Historical Perspective

1. Commodity and Market: Structure of the Long-distance Trade in the East Asian Seas and Beyond Prior to the Early Nineteenth Century
2. Maritime Frontiers, Territorial Expansion and Haifang (Coastal Defense) during the Late Ming and High Qing
3. Trade, the Sea Prohibition and the “Folangji”, 1513–50
4. Treaties, Politics and the Limits of Local Diplomacy in Fuzhou in the Early 1850s
5. “Shooting the Eagle”: Lin Changyi’s Agony in the Wake of the Opium War

Part Two: Between “Us” and “Them”

1. Commodity and Market: Structure of the Long-distance Trade in the East Asian Seas and Beyond Prior to the Early Nineteenth Century
2. Maritime Frontiers, Territorial Expansion and Haifang (Coastal Defense) during the Late Ming and High Qing
3. Trade, the Sea Prohibition and the “Folangji”, 1513–50
4. Treaties, Politics and the Limits of Local Diplomacy in Fuzhou in the Early 1850s
5. “Shooting the Eagle”: Lin Changyi’s Agony in the Wake of the Opium War

Part Three: Pushing the Traditional Boundaries

1. The Changing Landscape in Rural South Fujian in Late-Ming Times: A Story of the “Little People” (1)
2. Gentry-Merchants and Peasant-Peddlers in Offshore Trading Activities, 1522–66: A Story of the “Little People” (2)
3. Managing Maritime Affairs in Late-Ming Times
Contents

10. Liturgical Services and Business Fortunes: Chinese Maritime Merchants in the Eighteenth and Early Nineteenth Centuries 292

11. The Amoy Riots of 1852: Coolie Emigration and Sino-British Relations 316

Part Four: Transcending Borders

12. Expanding Possibilities: Revisiting the Min-Yue Junk-trade Enterprise on the China Coast and in the Nanyang during the Eighteenth to the Mid-nineteenth Centuries 345

13. The Case of Chen Yilao: Maritime Trade and Overseas Chinese in Qing Policies, 1717–54 415

14. “Are These Persons British or Chinese Subjects?”—Legal Principles and Ambiguities Regarding the Status of the Straits Chinese as Revealed in the Lee Shun Fah Affair in Amoy, 1847 444

Glossary of Chinese Characters 469
Bibliography 474
Index 496