Netprov

Wittig, Rob

Published by Amherst College Press

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/103742

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=3395915

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License.
CONTENTS

Acknowledgments vii

Introduction 1

1. The Impulse to Fiction 19

   Example 1: The Ballad of Workstudy Seth, a Netprov 35
   An Impulse to Fiction Becomes a Character

2. Solo Netprovs 41

   Example 2: All-Time High, a Netprov 51
   A Playground for Playing Multiple Characters

3. Playing Multiple Characters and Producing Larger Netprovs 59

   Example 3: Fantasy Spoils: After the Quest, a Netprov 75
   Speaking Stories Together, Dungeons & Dragons Style

4. Playing Well with Others 81

   Example 4: I Work for the Web, a Netprov 97
   Revolution in the Feed

5. Satirical, Situational Netprovs 105

   Example 5: Reality: Being @spencerpratt, a Netprov 115
   Join the Game!
6. The Thingness of Language
   Wordplay in Netprov

   Example 6: #1WkNoTech, a Netprov
   A Collaborative Thought Experiment

7. Organizing and Launching Open-Ended Netprovs

   Example 7: The LA Flood Project, a Netprov
   An Environmental/Political Story Line

8. Netprovs with a Story Line

   Example 8: Destination Wedding 2070, a Netprov
   A Sugarcoated Dystopia

9. Games, Role-Play, and Netprovs in the Real World

   Example 9: Thermophiles in Love, a Netprov
   Larping Five Genders

10. Futures of Netprov

    Laughter, Insight, Empathy

    Notes

    Appendixes