Pacific Languages
Lynch, John

Published by University of Hawai'i Press

Lynch, John.
Pacific Languages: An Introduction.
University of Hawai'i Press, 1998.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/67423.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/67423

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2378265
Contents

Illustrations x
Preface xiii
Acknowledgments xvii
Terms Used xix

Chapter 1  Linguistics: Some Basic Concepts 1
  1.1. The Structure of Language 1
  1.2. Common Grammatical Categories and Functions 5
  1.3. Reconstructing Linguistic History 9

Part 1: Geography and History 21

Chapter 2  The Languages of the Pacific 23
  2.1. How Many Languages? 23
  2.2. Linguistic Demography 27
  2.3. Language Names 40
  2.4. A Brief History of Pacific Language Research 41

Chapter 3  The History of the Austronesian Languages 45
  3.1. The Austronesian Family 45
  3.2. The Oceanic Languages 46
Chapter 4  The History of the Papuan and Australian Languages
4.1. Interrelationships of Papuan Languages
4.2. Interrelationships of Australian Languages
4.3. Possible External Links
4.4. Implications for Prehistory

Part 2: Structure

Chapter 5  Sound Systems
5.1. Oceanic Languages
5.2. Papuan Languages
5.3. Australian Languages
5.4. Orthographies
5.5. Summary

Chapter 6  Oceanic Languages: Grammatical Overview
6.1. Pronouns
6.2. Nouns and Noun Phrases
6.3. Possessive Constructions
6.4. Verbs and the Verb Complex
6.5. Sentences
6.6. Similarities and Differences

Chapter 7  Papuan Languages: Grammatical Overview
7.1. Pronouns
7.2. Nouns and Noun Phrases
7.3. Possessive Constructions
7.4. Verbs and the Verb Complex
7.5. Sentences

Chapter 8  Australian Languages: Grammatical Overview
8.1. Pronouns
8.2. Nouns and Noun Phrases
8.3. Possessive Constructions
8.4. Verbs and the Verb Complex
8.5. Sentences
Part 3: The Social and Cultural Context

Chapter 9  Languages in Contact
- 9.1. The Social Context of Language Contact 205
- 9.2. The Linguistic Effects of Contact 208
- 9.3. Three Case Studies 213
- 9.4. Historical Implications 218

Chapter 10  Pidgins, Creoles, and Koines
- 10.1. Pidginization, Creolization, and Koineization 220
- 10.2. Melanesian Pidgin 221
- 10.3. The Pidgins of the Motu Traders 232
- 10.4. Fiji Hindi 235

Chapter 11  Language, Society, and Culture in the Pacific Context
- 11.1. The Vocabulary of Pacific Languages 237
- 11.2. Counting Systems 244
- 11.4. Languages in Use 256
- 11.5. Language Use in Pacific Nations 261
- 11.6. Shift, Survival, Death, Revival 268

Conclusion  Ideas about Pacific Languages 272