Writing Gender in Early Modern Chinese Women's Tanci Fiction

Guo, Li

Published by Purdue University Press

Guo, Li.
Writing Gender in Early Modern Chinese Women's Tanci Fiction.
Purdue University Press, 2021.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/83445.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/83445

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=2856294
CONTENTS

Acknowledgments ix

Note on Style and Excerpts xiii

INTRODUCTION
Toward a Spatialized Understanding of Women’s Literary Tānci 1

CHAPTER ONE
Vernacular Literacy, Cross-Dressing, and Feminine Authority in Zhu Suxian’s Yulianhuan (Linked Rings of Jade) 37

CHAPTER TWO
Among Women: Feminine Homoeroticism in Li Guiyu’s
Liuhuameng (Dream of the Pomegranate Flowers) 75

CHAPTER THREE
Gender, Syncretism, and Female Exemplarity: Jin Fangquan’s
Qizhenzhuan (A Tale of Exceptional Chastity) 109
CHAPTER FOUR
“Beyond Rouge and Powder”: Rewriting Female Talent in Sun Deying’s Jinyuyuan (Affinity of the Golden Fish) 155

CHAPTER FIVE
A New Romance of the Nation-State: On Wang Oushang’s Zixuji (A Tale of Vacuity) 191

CONCLUSION 221

Glossary 229

Works Cited 239

Index 259

About the Author 275