Identity, Gender, and Tracking

Vermilya, Jenny R.

Published by Purdue University Press

Vermilya, Jenny R.
Identity, Gender, and Tracking: The Reality of Boundaries for Veterinary Students.
Purdue University Press, 2022.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/94379.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/94379

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=3030435
IDENTITY, GENDER, AND TRACKING
NEW DIRECTIONS IN THE HUMAN-ANIMAL BOND

Series editors: Alan M. Beck and Marguerite E. O’Haire, Purdue University

A dynamic relationship has always existed between people and animals. Each influences the psychological and physiological state of the other. This series of scholarly publications, in collaboration with Purdue University’s College of Veterinary Medicine, expands our knowledge of the interrelationships between people, animals, and their environment. Manuscripts are welcomed on all aspects of human-animal interaction and welfare, including therapy applications, public policy, and the application of humane ethics in managing our living resources.

Other titles in this series:

Dogs and Cats in South Korea: Itinerant Commodities
  Julien Dugnoille

Assessing Handlers for Competence in Animal-Assisted Interventions
  Ann R. Howie

The Canine-Campus Connection: Roles for Dogs in the Lives of College Students
  Mary Renck Jalongo (Ed.)

  Norman F. Cheville

Cats and Conservationists: The Debate Over Who Owns the Outdoors
  Dara M. Wald and Anna L. Peterson

That Sheep May Safely Graze: Rebuilding Animal Health Care in War-Torn Afghanistan
  David M. Sherman

Transforming Trauma: Resilience and Healing Through Our Connections With Animals
  Philip Tedeschi and Molly Anne Jenkins (Eds.)

A Reason to Live: HIV and Animal Companions
  Vicki Hutton

  Sandra B. Barker, Rebecca A. Vokes, and Randolph T. Barker

Moose! The Reading Dog
  Laura Bruneau and Beverly Timmons

Leaders of the Pack: Women and the Future of Veterinary Medicine
  Julie Kumble and Donald F. Smith
For the animals.

For the students who shared with me their stories.

And for me.