If I wasn’t an author by profession I think I’d turn my mind to agency work and enter the lists on your side.

—Kipling to A. P. Watt  [25 May 1894]

Please write at once to the cheerful burglars who propose to allude to the “suppressed works” of Rudyard Kipling and explain to them politely but firmly that there is no sense in “suppressing” works if fellows of their kidney publish ’em. Stop them by all means in your power.

—Kipling to A. S. Watt  6 November 1896
