An Edwardian's View of Dickens and His Illustrators

Gareth Cordery

Published by ELT Press

Cordery, Gareth.
An Edwardian's View of Dickens and His Illustrators: Harry Furniss's 'A Sketch of Boz'.
Project MUSE. muse.jhu.edu/book/11050.

For additional information about this book
https://muse.jhu.edu/book/11050

For content related to this chapter
https://muse.jhu.edu/related_content?type=book&id=290864
The following institutions have kindly granted permission to reproduce images in their possession: British Library (fig. 57); Dickens House Museum (figs. 8, 15, 50, 58); Huntington Library (Appendix, figs. (a) and (b)); National Portrait Gallery (figs. 1, 3, 7, 11, 33, 42); Philadelphia Free Library (figs. 20, 21); Victoria and Albert Museum (fig. 30).

I thank the Dickens Society for permission to reproduce an earlier version of parts of the Introduction that first appeared as “Harry Furniss and the ‘Boom in Boz’” in Dickens Quarterly, vol. 21, June and September 2004, pp. 90–103 and 143–56.

I would also like to thank the following individuals for assistance of various kinds: David Gunby; Duane de Vries; Jennifer Middendorf; Robert Patten; Duncan Shaw Brown; and Michael Slater.

My thanks, too, to ELT Press’s Michelle Coppedge for compiling the index, Allison Seay for proofreading, and Robert Langenfeld for expert editorial guidance.

Finally thanks in particular to Harry Furniss, the artist’s grandson, who has been helpful and supportive and who made available the manuscript of the lecture.